

Lisa Modrzejewski

Lisa is an experienced vocal and instrumental accompanist, and served as the assistant music director for multiple TIU School of Music productions. She has played piano and keyboard for many worship bands and currently serves on the worship team at Arlington Countryside Church in Arlington Heights, IL.

As a music educator, Lisa is passionate about providing quality piano education to young musicians. While growing up, she had several influential piano instructors who not only instilled in her a great love for music, but also helped her to learn the importance of diligence, responsibility, and self-confidence. Lisa enjoys passing these and many other lessons along to the next generation. In addition to learning to play the piano well, her students can expect to learn about many different genres, music theory, history, and a healthy balance of sight-reading and ear training.
